

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:
MOUNT HARMON PLANTATION TO HOST
REVOLUTIONARY WAR & COLONIAL FESTIVAL
Saturday & Sunday, October 4 & 5, 2025
Get Ready to Celebrate America's 250th Birthday!

Get ready to celebrate America's 250th Birthday ~ mark your calendars for October 4 & 5 ~ Mount Harmon is hosting a Revolutionary War & Colonial Festival featuring re-enactors from around the mid-Atlantic region coming to bring American history to life. The event will feature British and Continental Encampments, and Battle Reenactment of 1777 Philadelphia Campaign "The Road to Brandywine" in the Chesapeake region. The event also features Colonial Marketplace with array of colonial merchants selling hand-crafted and artisan wares, and living history activities and demonstrations for the whole family to enjoy. The event will portray the 1777 Philadelphia Campaign "Road to Brandywine" when the British forces landed at nearby Head of Elk, with skirmishes and battles in the upper Chesapeake region, as British and Continental forces clashed over the quest for American independence. Be sure to join us for all of the time traveling fun, and learn more about this exciting and pivotal period in our nation's history at the dawn of America's 250th anniversary.

Each day will feature colonial marketplace, military skirmishes and battles, and of course a full-fledged Revolutionary War Encampment of both British and "Rebels" will be at hand to bring history to life. The public will be able to: tour the encampments, shop at the colonial market faire, enjoy children's musket drills, hearth cooking, colonial crafts, living history demonstrations, manor house tours, and General Foreman's Open Air Tavern featuring Bayheads Brewing Company and SmoQ-N Meat BBQ.

Tickets Available online at www.mountharmon.org and upon entry.

Saturday, October 4, 10am - 4pm & Sunday, October 5, 10am - 3pm

Admission: $10 per person

Children 12 & under & FOMH Members Free

For additional Event Information, Media Coverage and Press Credentials call FOMH at 410-275-8819 or e-mail info@mountharmon.org.